BASE BALL MITT NOW MADE FOR TWO HANDS

CHICAGO, May 5.-Now that the base ball mitt has been enlarged until no further improvement can be made in this direction, and has been modified in design by the addition of heel pads and finger webs to insure the safe lodgment of the ball until ngenuity can suggest nothing further, an llinois inventor comes forward with a mitt for two hands, which is entirely unique.

This glove is constructed with separate hand and finger holds for each hand, cen-nected with a pocket or receptacle between them, so that all the catcher has to do is to judge accurately the probable course of persons saw Hyperion II, the favorite, win the Clark handicap this afternoon at pocket by folding the double glove to pre-Churchill Downs. Midshipmen Defeated the Eight From New Haven in a Hot Race.

Special Dispatch to The Star. ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 5.-The midshipmen's eight-oared crew defeated the brawny crew of Yale in a two-mile race on the Severn river this afternoon. The middies outrowed the New Havenites, who were almost completely exhausted and were unable to finish the course.

The Yale crew stopped rowing within several lengths of the finish boats, the men

The two crews had been rowing a nipand-tuck contest all the way through. The Yale men pulled a long powerful stroke, which sent their boat shooting through the water, and to the ordinary spectator they the finish boat, but another glance told that the oarsmen were apparently played out. The time of the race today was rather fast, considering the fact that both the tide and a slight wind were against the crews. The splendid start made by the Yale oarsmen was the most redeeming feature of their work. They hit a faster pace than did the midshipmen, and after the first half a mile they were holding a lead of between a half and one boat length. Both the crews pulled at the rate of thirty-seven strokes to the minute for the first fifteen strokes, but after that they steadied down, Navy rowing thirty-four to Yale's thirty-

YOUNG MEN BEATING THE VETERANS IN GOLF

This is going to be a great season for the young bloods in "golfdom." The win of wood recently is an indication of what may college boys were left.
On the other hand, look at the second division. There we find no less than thir-teen who would have to accept the sobri-quet of veteran. Very much the same pro-portion holds good in the third and fourth

Now the question which naturally forces itself upon us is, Why do the young fellows crowd the veterans so roughly in the race for chief honors? They say golf is a game for all ages; suitable for a child or a man ninety years of age. Then why should the youth of eighteen, with less experience, defeat the man of forty?

One explanation is that confidence, so necessary to success in golf is more transfer. So we was not kept in Boston to umpire the New York series was because the New York club has no use for him. The difference between progressive and rowdy ball was well shown in the first two games of the New York National League series. New York played like champions in the first game; in the second game the local management should have ordered

One explanation is that confidence, so necessary to success in golf, is more frequently found in youth. As the player advances in years he begins to think of all the bad shots in his last round, or suddenly discovers that he can't use his mashie right, or some other club. He changes style, tries longer clubs, and by and by has so many things on his mind when standing over his ball that there is little worder he fusses.

ROWDY BALL IN THE NATIONAL LEAGUE

Tactics of the New York Giants Hurtful to the Game-Recent Scenes in Boston.

BY J. C. MORSE.

BOSTON, May 5.-Already it is evidenced that the American League race will be far more closer and more interesting than that of the National. The anti-American writers were once wont to allege that it was a put-up job on President Johnson's part to make his pennant races interesting. That being the case, it would be interesting to know why it is that he does not occasionally hand over a pennant to some of the cities that have been aching to get the rag just once say Cleveland or St. Louis. Boston and Philadelphia have each had it twice in the American, and it would not be so intensely surprising to many if one of the two landed it again this season. It would seem that any such charge were the sincerest possible flattery, for it is a wise base ball president that can arrange an exciting race and better such a race than a dull one fashioned without any assistance. Johnson has certainly worked to strengthen his weak clubs; in fact, he has ent all his energies in that direction

Perhaps it would not be such a bad idea it the National League clubs that need strengthening got some aid in that direction. Johnson had a lot to do with the manning of the Boston American League Club. He knew it would be for his interest and that of his organization that Boston should be strong and it has been strong and that of his organization that Boston should be strong, and it has been strong from the day it first took the field. Now it is Washington that has received his attention, and that club promises to do better than it did last season. Each league should be a committee of the whole, as it were, to help the under dog in base ball, not as was evinced by the New York National League team in its visit here last week, to win by any means if games canweek, to win by any means, if games cannot be won by fair. Right here be it said that such scenes as were witnessed in this city last week on the National League grounds would have been impossible in the Johnson organization.

The Wrong Umpire Present. It may be said here, at the same time, that the president of the National League does not approve of the actions of playernagging clubs. It was unfortunate indeed that Mr. Pulliam should have assigned to the games of the New York club here Mr. the games of the New York club here Mr. Conway. That gentleman is entirely new to the National League, and to assign him at once to the toughest proposition possible in the National League was an unnecessary ordeal. The veteran "Hank" O'Day should have been retained from the previous series, and in that case there would have been no trouble at all, for that veteran will stand for no nonsense and will stand his ground no matter how disagreeable the situation. Again, with such a lot of trouble-breeders as the champions, the veteran member of a pair should always veteran member of a pair should always have the onerous part of labor—the decisions at the rubber.

President Johnson of the American League has not only made rigorous rules to guide his umpires, but has gone the very limit when he a ordered his time.

very limit when he has ordered his um-pires to bench even a manager or captain several lengths of the finish boats, the men being apparently played out. Rodgers, who was rowing No. 3 oar, fainted and fell back into the arms of Bigelow, at No. 4 oar. At the time Yale stopped rowing the middles were about a length to the good. They shot their boat across the finish, the time for the race being 10.45.

A Nip-and-Tuck Contest.

The two crews had been rowing a nip several lengths of the finish boats, the men player who makes any move to dispute a decision. This is as it should be. Give a player an inch and he will take a yard, and trouble-making might as well be stopped in its inception. The actions of the New York Nationals must show President Pulliam that he must do the very same thing. This crowding of players about the umpire when he has made a close decision must be stopped once and for all. It is very evident that the New York champions of the National League and champions of the National League and cham-pions of the American League have no respect for the umplies, whom they would drive from the face of the earth if given the opportunity.

The head of the National League, Man were picked to win. But the middles out-generaled them, and that they were out-rowed was shown by their exhausted ap-pearance just before the finish.

The head of the National League, Man-ager McGraw, has come into contact with Mr. Pulliam and has come out victorious and has not yet recovered from the elation consequent upon his triumph, and it seems and has not yet recovered from the elation consequent upon his triumph, and it seems as if his players emulated his example, for Persons aboard the official boat at first believed that the Yale men had mistaken the finish hoat, but another glance told that umpires have no easy task before them to put a stop to this evident desire to blow away every obstacle in the sight of the champions and to win by any means. Clubs must be forced to play fair if they want to play at all, or take the consequences, which should be made as rigorous as the law allows.

Intimidation by the Giants.

All last season the local National League club suffered from the intimidation of umpires at the hands of the New York club. The feeling that fair play cannot be rezlubs as well as with the Boston club. The werst of the whole affair is that there is tice, which is now within hailing distance York does not have to descend to the tac-tics it employs to win games. In the first game of the series here New York be-This was at the mile point, and for the next quarter mile the eights pulled about even.

The Elis then increased their stroke to thirty-five, and were gradually taking the lead again. But the Navy lads had the necessary reserve power, and with an eighth of a mile to ge they ran their stroke up to the stroke up to the stroke up to the stroke to the strok

It was exactly this kind of conduct that The Yale brought affairs in the National League to about the such a condition not so many years ago

There is no doubt that the conduct of the New York National League players in this city last week hurt not only the National Since their defeat by Pennsylvania last Saturday Coach Glendon of Navy made several changes in the composition of his wrangling and kicking and will not tolerate it any more. Clean ball playing is what is wanted and must be had. It behooves the president to make a stand in this matter and it behooves the directors and the members to stand together in seeing that the game is rescued from the hands of those who would stop at nothing to gain their own ends, not even the killing of the sport. It looks very much as if the world's champions fear the Pittsburgs and the Chicagos this season or they would not be so obstreperous. If they keep up in the way they have begun some rare scenes will be enacted on the Polo Grounds before the season is over.

Ban Johnson's Backbone. President Ban Johnson would not stand for an umpire who allowed himself to be run over rough-shod. Ban knows his men. A. L. White, a Harvard student, at Lake- He likes "Silk" O'Loughlin, "Tom" Connolly, "Jack" Sheridan and "Tim" Hurst be expected quite frequently during the next four months. If it were not for Walter J. Travis the old guard would be compelled to take to the woods altogether. Glance over the list of those who qualified in the first sixteen of the Lakewood open tournaments, and it will be seen that nine of the number were what might be termed youngsters. When the tourney had narrowed down to the final only a pair of college boys were left.

On the other hand, look at the second American League field is fairly impossible, but it should also be the same on a Na-tional League field. It may not be true that the New York National League club does not dictate the apportionment of the umpires, but it is said that the reason sus bureau, shows a very large increase for O'Day was not kept in Boston to umpire the New York series was because the New

Good old Tom Lynch was driven out of the National League corps of umpires owing to the fact that he was treated in the most outrageous and ignominious manner imaginable and retired from the game in disgust. He had the backbone and was in disgust.

than Marager Collins of the Boston Americans, himself one of the best batsmen in the country, openly expressed his disgust in these columns not so long ago with the foul strike rule. He is not alone in this opinion. There is scarcely a member of his own team who is not with him. It was well said by a major league player the other day: "Why not leave the settlement of this mooted question to the major league players of this country?" Why not, indeed? What would be found? Without a doubt it would be almost unanimous for a return to the old order of things, to the order of things which formerly prevailed in the American League, and would have prevailed today had President Ban Johnson had his own way; and, say what one will, Mr. Johnson has never wavered in his allegiance to the former state of things. What the future will bring forth is indeed uncertain, but it is far from being improbable that the American League will go back to the old order of things on its own responsibility in another season. Here we have already had a no-run, no-hit game operated against a home club, and how much enjoyment is there in that sort of thing? In fact, a rechad a no-run, no-mt game operated against a home club, and how much enjoyment is there in that sort of thing? In fact, a record has already been achieved against the Brooklyns, who have been held down to no hits and one hit o ntheir own grounds and down to one hit in a game in this city. It is fairly inconceivable that patrons will stand for such light hitting.

DEPARTMENTAL CHESS TOURNEY ENDS SOON

In a little over two weeks the first departmental chess tournament will have passed into history, as but seven matches remain unplayed to complete the schedule. In addition, several pending matches will probably be completed within that time, or as soon thereafter as the various opponents soon thereafter as the various opponents can be brought together.

Last Monday night Justice cleaned out Treasury by a score of 3 to 0, while Navy took a fall out of the diplomats the score standing 3½ to 1½. Govern at Printing Office also pulled off in advance its match with War, scheduled for May 23. The typos did themselves proud, playing the leaders to a standstill, the score standing 2 to 2 at the conclusion of hostilities.

Standing of the Clubs.

The most noteworthy features of last week's play were the setback received by the leaders at the hands of the G. P. O., ceived on the Polo Grounds exists with other | the drop taken by State in the percentage column and the continued advance of Jusof the "money counters."
The Justice boys have a couple of hard matches ahead of them, however, to say nothing of their unfinished series with Interior B, and will do well to split even on the balance of their campaign. The typos certainly deserve credit for their recent performance against War, and, though they fell just short of winning, the leaders had all they could do to stave off defeat. The result of the contest was a popular one, for, though the playing of Maj. Whipple, Tibbetts and Lattimore, the other members of the War team, are a strong trio and have proven well-nigh invincible to a majority of their opponents. In match play it is hard to choose between them. All three are seasoned, experienced players and have proven their worth in many a hard-fought battle over the check-ered board. The major will do well to get this trio on his "reserve list."

The title to second place is still in doubt, and, though it looks at present as if Interior A would land the honor, it is still possible for either Agriculture or Interior
